

getting a healthy start...

Did you know... that eating healthy before and during your pregnancy is especially important, and can even help with fatigue, morning sickness, and other pregnancy symptoms...?

Eating a nutritious diet before and during your pregnancy can promote healthy fetal development, a healthy birth weight, and could potentially reduce the risk of birth defects. Pregnancy symptoms such as fatigue, morning sickness and the onset of anemia can also be reduced with a balanced diet.

Taking a prenatal vitamin with folic acid and incorporating food high in folic acid can help your baby have a healthy start! Food high in folic acid include:

Spinach and greens

Broccoli

Asparagus

Citrus fruits and juices

Breads and pastas

Lentils and black beans

To find a health care provider, call the phone number listed on your health plan member card. If you do not have a health plan, visit www.getcovered.illinois.gov to find the coverage that is right for you.

Healthy Choices
Healthy Futures

healthychoiceshealthyfutures.org

